Inability to land effectively on Miller came near resulting in a shut-out for the Browns in their game with Detroit yesterday afternoon, a three-bagger by Wallace in the last half of the ninth inning alone saving the home team by bringing Anderson in from second. But five hits were made by St. Louis in the course of the game against ten made by the visitors.

For the first five innings the game was interesting and in the sixth a sensational three-bagger by Gleason, which brought in Harley, Casey and Elberfeld, caused a stir among the enthusiastic present, who were rooting as strenuously as visitors for the home team. In the closing half of the ninth Wallace sent a drive to right field which got Miller to third and which sent Anderson home.

From the fifth inning to the close the game was rather listlessly played by some of the home men, the result of the sixth making the contest somewhat uninteresting, as both sides suffered thereby, they proved an advantage to neither team.

A brisk breeze from the west set in at intervals, but the early part of the afternoon was sunny and clear, while the closing innings were played in cloudy and threatening weather, which relieved the spectators from any embarrassment by the sun. As a result of the weather conditions in the early part of the afternoon, the largest crowd of the season turned out to witness a new mark was established in attendance.

Patrons of the bleachers were present in especially strong force, both divisions of the team being crowded to the utmost capacity, with many perched upon the railings, while fully 1,000 or 1,500 enthusiasts stood between the stadium bleachers and the post.

Throughout the entire game, Grand stands and pavilion were filled to their utmost capacity with a typical holiday crowd.

Barrett opened the game for the visitors by going to the bat and scoring a single with an easy grounder to second, which was quickly returned to first by Miller, closing the inning.

Elberfeld got to first on balls in the second, Gleason following and Elberfeld going to second, both runners advancing a moment later on a long foul fly to Burdett, which went out on a long foul fly to Burdett and Elberfeld came home, Gleason getting to third, Maguire hit an easy grounder to Padden, and was quickly returned to first by Miller, closing the inning.

Burdett made a nice hit the first time at the bat, reaching first on a drive to center, which was quickly returned to first by Miller, closing the inning.

Hoy's Base Running a Feature—Swormstedt Hit Freely, While Wicker Kept His Hits Scattered.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Cincinnati, O., April 27.—The Cincinnati team went down to defeat in the last game of the series with the St. Louis team here today, to the tune of 5 to 3. The game was close and exciting, both teams playing good ball. Several sensational plays were made by the Cardinals. Swormstedt was hit freely, while Wicker kept his nine hits made off his delivery well scattered.

The visitors bunched enough hits in the eighth to win the game, which had just previously been tied by the locals on Hoy's daring base running, he scoring from second on Beckley's sacrifice bunt. This, with Bergen's magnificent throwing to bases, was the feature of the game.

In the first half of the game, St. Louis scored on Swormstedt, and scored on Corcoran's error of Barclay's fly. Barclay was caught between the bags. In the fifth, Wicker singled and Barclay scored on Crawford's wild throw to the plate. Donovan took third and scored on Smoot's liner to Swormstedt. Barclay was again hit by Swormstedt.

In the sixth, Barclay singled, and scored on Smoot's liner to Swormstedt. Barclay was again hit by Swormstedt.

In the seventh, Hoy drew a base on balls. Dubbe sacrificed, Barclay scored, and Hoy, who had started to steal third, came home on the hit, tying the score. Crawford smothered the visit with a sacrifice.

In the eighth, Smoot lined to a single and Barclay tore off a beauty for four bags, into right field, bringing in Smoot before him. The score was 5 to 3, easy, but Hartman got a hit, but was not advanced.

In the ninth, neither team could score. The final inning neither team could score.
